

THE RICE-AZOLLA-FISH SYSTEM: AN ECOLOGICAL VIEW

W. SEETANUN, PRAYOON SWATDEE and SOMPORN CHOONLUCHANON
Soil Science Division, Department of Agriculture, Bangkok
10900, Thailand

ABSTRACT

High-technology conventional agriculture with excessive toxic chemicals has polluted the environment and caused ecological imbalance. Ecological agriculture is an alternative in partly solving the problem. The principle of this alternative is to take biological processes in natural ecosystems as the basic model for agricultural practice. The rice-azolla-fish ecosystem is probably one case of the solution.